With the revision of the Work Injury Compensation Act (Cap. 354) in 2008, more employees now fall under statutory protection for work-related injuries than ever before. LIU's Workplace Protect is an innovative product allowing employers to meet their legal obligations whilst providing greater security for injured workers.

Workplace Protect increases the level of several important benefits employees receive in the event of an injury at work, ensuring they and their family are cared for. With Workplace Protect, full rehabilitation is a shared objective between the employer and the worker.

Employers also benefit from Workplace Protect. In conjunction with a specialist workplace safety assessment for selected clients, the enhanced benefit structure is designed to reduce common law claims, minimising company time and costs in dealing with such claims.

Companies can become an employer of choice and attract higher quality employees with LIU's broad solution - Workplace Protect.
